

2008 Humanitarian Award Recipient

Muhammad Yunus

Join us as we recognize Nobel Laureate Professor Muhammad Yunus with the 2008 Project Concern International Humanitarian Award.

Dr. Yunus, an economics professor from Bangladesh, was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 2006 with the Grameen Bank for making microcredit - small loans to very poor women - one of the most effective tools for poverty alleviation and social change.

His new book Creating a World Without Poverty focuses on the potential for social businesses to create lasting, positive change.

2008 Cultural Ambassadors

John & Cynthia Hardy

The 2008 Cultural Ambassador Award will be given to John and Cynthia Hardy for their lifelong dedication to bringing the artisanal beauty of Balinese silversmithing to the world.

PCI acknowledges and applauds them for their commitment to "sustainable luxury" and agrees that their jewelry is about more than looking good - it is about feeling good and doing good while doing well in business.

John and Cynthia recently founded Green School (www.greenschool.org). This ambitious project, as its name affirms, is committed to environmental sustainability and will serve as a model for education in the 21st century.

2008 Hands Honor Roll

Project Concern International is pleased to acknowledge individuals and organizations in the San Diego region who share our commitment to lasting, positive change for their initiatives in the three areas of PCI's mission – community health, economic empowerment and sustainable development – in South & Southeast Asia.

PCI's Immunization Campaign

Help Us Save Lives

Each year, 1.7 million children die from diseases that could have been prevented with readily available vaccines.

Through Project Concern International's Immunization Campaign, you can help us provide access to these lifesaving immunizations and other essential health services for children and families.

Because of supporters like you, Project Concern International delivered over two million immunizations worldwide in 2007.
